PACK FOREST 1985: "CHANGING COURSE: RESTRUCTURING ACADEMIC LIBRARIES"

The sixth Annual Joint Washington/Oregon ACRL Conference will be held at Pack Forest, Washington on October 24-25, 1985. The theme, "Changing Course: Restructuring Academic Libraries," will address the issues surrounding libraries, automation, and organizational change. Scenic Pack Forest will once again provide a lovely setting, good food, and a courteous staff for the Conference.

B. J. BUSCH will provide the keynote address for the conference. Ms. Busch recently completed a study of the organizational relationships between technical and public services for the Office of Management Studies of the Association of Research Libraries. In the study she identifies forces for and against organizational change, responses to change, and future issues and models for organizational structures in academic libraries. She is presently the Area Coordinator of the Humanities and Social Sciences Library at the University of Alberta.

Are academic libraries integrating the tasks and responsibilities of public and technical services? Has automation actually changed the organizational structure of libraries? Is restructuring the organization the only way of responding to the demands for new services from libraries? What types of new structures are being created to address mutual public/technical services concerns? Ms. Busch will speak to these and other questions as the conference keynote speaker. After a short break a reactor panel will provide their observations to her address, and conference participants will have some time to ask questions and offer their comments on the specific implications addressed by the panel and Ms. Busch.

Friday morning ANNALEE LUHMAN will speak to the issue of personal responses to organizational change. How do individuals react to shifting structures of assignments, departments, and divisions? How should an individual respond to the tension between traditional and automated responsibilities? Ms. Luhman is studying these and other questions as a doctoral student in organizational communication with a minor in labor relations at the Department of Speech Communications, University of Washington. The Friday session will conclude with PAUL BALDWIN who will outline his experiences as Systems Librarian at Simon Fraser University. Mr. Baldwin recently completed the installation of a GEAC Library Information System at Simon Fraser. From 1977 to 1982 he was the Director of the B. C. Union Catalog Project. His experiences should provide conference participants with an overview of the practical day-to-day concerns in changing the structure of a library to meet the demands of an automated system.

The traditional evening of socializing will be enlivened by a party with good food and wine and the "Bingo Tonight" country band of Seattle.

A conference schedule, registration form, and directions to Pack Forest will be found elsewhere in this issue. Registration for the conference will be on a space available basis so send your form in early!

KEEPING UP WITH YOUR MEMBERSHIP

The chapter by-laws for the Oregon chapter of ACRL designated the membership year as October through September. Memberships paid after April 1st are applied to the following year.

Beginning with the 1984-85 membership year, the Advisory Board established the option of a two year membership at a slightly reduced rate. The two year option may have created some uncertainty about when your membership expires. To help us all keep up with our membership, your newsletter mailing label will now reflect your membership expiration date. Look in the upper right hand corner of the label for a two digit number that indicates the year of expiration of your membership. Since all memberships expire in October, only the year of expiration appears on the label. If, for example the number on your label is 86, your membership expires in October 1986. IF THERE IS NO NUMBER ON YOUR LABEL, YOUR MEMBERSHIP HAS ALREADY EXPIRED: THIS IS THE LAST NEWSLETTER YOU WILL RECEIVE.
